

Abstract: In this talk, we will introduce the notion of the Lyapunov exponent associated with a dynamical system, highlight its importance and present some interesting problems associated with them. If time permits, we will focus on one such problem, that of the continuity of Lyapunov exponents, and present some recent results and open problems about it. The talk will be at an introductory level and no previous knowledge about the subject is required.